Tim Morehouse is currently ranked 16th in the world and is resting up for the Las Vegas Grand Prix this weekend. Now that he's qualified for the Olympics and the US is finally getting some respect in the fencing world, the focus shifts to coming together in the team event, and getting some fundraising done.

We bounce around a bit in this interview, but we also announce a new initiative that is launching in the next week.

Listen to Tim's interview here:

Tim will also be on air Saturday morning on a Chicago radio show. Go over to <http://www.wlup.com/> to catch it.

You can also reference <http://www.tenthousandfencers.com/> to get a preview of what's to come.

As always, you can listen to the Podcast, available on iTunes under "fencing".
